ABOUT GERMANS IN AMERICA

The indignation of Americans at seeing certain persons trying to import prejudices and hatreds from abroad, and seeking to fasten the goose-step on the United States, is natural, but it should be restrained.

Those people of German descent who have been so thoughtless and so irresponsible as to foster these movements are a very small minority of the German-descended population of the United States. They are loud, and demonstrative, but they are not representative of the Germanic people who have made so splendid a contribution to the upbuilding of the United States.

No one should be more resentful of this loud minority than the honest and admirable people who have never hesitated, for several generations, to throw their weight decisively on the side of freedom and democracy. The antics of the unfettered goose-stepping hate-mongers cast an undesired reflection on them.

Hilary's impudent presumption is that, simply because their ancestors came from Germany, whose institutions many of them hated, Americans of German origin owe some sort of allegiance to the man or the party which now rules Germany.

The great bulk of German immigrants to America came to escape the tyrannies of their own day, and they are not stupid enough to feel the slightest allegiance to an even more narrow tyranny of today. They turn to Carl Schurz, not to Josef Goebbels.

Usually, the vast bulk of such people are silent, and without rebuff bear the slur that is cast on them by the Klu Klux and the Schwinn. But in Los Angeles, a thousand of them decided to give no longer the silence that implies consent. They voted to protest the activities of the Nazi Bund, and to declare their own loyalty to democracy.

The United States has always had reason to be proud of its citizens of German descent. During the world war, almost to a man they passed the acid test of loyalty.

Today they are not less loyal, but more, for the tyranny abroad which has the impudence to demand their allegiance is a more bitter one than ever a Kaiser dared impose on a proud people.

Do not be deceived by the antics of a rabid few. The vast bulk of American citizens of German descent will be found loyal today as in the past, to freedom, to the land which is now, and in most cases has been for generations, their own.

SCIENCE SHOUTS

Science has been speaking for some time, but with the announcement that a new process has been developed to make tough breakfast cereals, it shouts. This is one time that science has said a mouthful.

This process consists of hanging the meat in temperature higher than are usually used, and killing off the resulting bacteria, with ultra-violet rays. Every grain of beef, it is believed, can be raised approximately one full grade in palatability.

A good many of the developments of science, while they benefit the average man indirectly, are too remote for him to see just where they come in. But this one, getting right down to the evening dinner table, will cause a swelling chorus from 40,000,000 dinner tables. "Good old science!"

Three years of research by the Mellon Institute went into this discovery. Maybe, after many years, Andrew Mellon will be remembered not as the greatest secretary of the treasury since Alexander Hamilton, but as the man who took the beef out of beefsteak.

Probably the first successful commercial air line in the world was the line established in Germany by Otto von Zeppelin. Since his airplane carried a 300-mile route, which he served, it had made over 155 flights without a single injury to either passenger or crew.

During 1933 domestic airlines increased their plane mileage by 44 per cent and their passenger mileage by 18 per cent. Yet the fatalities decreased 33 per cent.

Domestic airlines, during December, 1933, carried 10,721 passengers as compared to 10,357 passengers in the same month of 1932. The airlines carried a 300-mile route, which he served, it had made over 155 flights without a single injury to either passenger or crew.

It is reported that the British "Hurricane" fighting planes carry a 300-mile route, which he served, it had made over 155 flights without a single injury to either passenger or crew.

"AND HOW ARE BOYS DOING?"

Your Children

By OLIVER ROBERTS BARTON

Those who think that little children forget easily are mistaken. A small child remembers for a long time.

Like an adult he may discard usual experiences and retain only the events that make a deep impression, but he will carry them with him.

It is emotion, not the pure mechanics of thought, that writes indelibly on the mind during the first years.

Think back as far as you can to your earliest childhood. One or two events will stand out. Perhaps, the first time you have done a bit of window-dressing and you are asked to help with the shopping.

For the contract-signing ceremony in this enterprise, he turned up for the press agent ordered in top hat and spats. He was moderately funny.

Leave Out Sheeks
My reason for being so analytical is this—we should try to leave sheeks out of the picture. It is a common incident that seems to be a sense of outrage, concerning not only that one day or hour but against all his early training. An incident that may be a sense of outrage, concerning not only that one day or hour but against all his early training.

Shippers Paying Premium on Gold from Across Sea

New York, March 24.—(AP)—Heavy has been the flight of capital from Europe to the United States during the past few days of tension over Germany's eastward march. Shippers of gold to the United States have been forced to pay a premium to get the metal on boats leaving Europe. It was reported in banking circles here today.

Despite the premium, which shippers reported was $50,000 each, and perhaps more would head for the United States during the week-end. The liner Manhattan alone, it was reported from Southampton, will carry $450,000 when she sails today.

The inflow of gold in recent weeks has been the heaviest since the Munich crisis, and in the week ending Wednesday a total of $22,000,000 in the metal was added to the country's stocks.

European bankers, bankers asserted, were shipping their gold direct to American companies without even offering it for sale in the London free gold market. On arrival here it is sold to the treasury at $35 a fine ounce, minus a small handling charge.

10 Americans—

and nine more won $50,000 each on Kicker.

Besides the pay-off on the winning ticket, 49 other tickets won prizes in the United States draw. Five winners entered in the stephane won $10,000 each while 29 others won $1,000 each.

The prize money to be paid in the United States was approximately $1,000,000. The total prize fund of $1,000,000 taken from a total of $1,000,000 was divided into 10 prizes of $100,000 each and 20 prizes of $50,000 each.

All New Taxes—

the people. Because, while the schemes of the law makers were being fixed the law so local governments were to do the collecting and get the blame.

The state tax commission this year cut the property valuation for tax purposes of one of the largest utilities of the country by $1,000,000. Cutting tax valuations is a wonderful thing, if done fairly. During recent years the Republican county board has decreased valuations a total of 40 per cent, which amounts to $300,000, but the board cut everyone's taxes and not just one corporation. Also the board cut expenses in proportion.

When the utility's taxes were cut this year, the difference had to be made up by increasing the taxes of every other property owner. The increase is 21 cents per $100 valuation.

The new taxes were discussed at meetings of interested citizens from the fifth, second and third wards last night.

Unconditional—

to accept a virtually unconditional surrender which would end the 33-month-old civil war and bring an end to the Republican capital.

It was reported that the speaker had a question of Mr. Smith but this was denied in Madrid by Defense Minister General Segismundo Casado.

Obvious plans for transfer of Madrid authority from the hands of Jose Maria which would be made by the Republican capital, to the Nationalist capital, to the Italian newspaper El Popolo di Roma said a Republican minister had flown there secretly to negotiate the surrender.

Capitulation Plans

Plans for capitulation of Madrid after more than 28 months of siege were reported to be complete at arrangements had been made for the handing of the city to the Nationalist municipal council already named to take over the city administration, was in conference with the Nationalist municipal council.

With the fall of Madrid, the Nationalists expected easily to take control of the country. It was reported that the Nationalist municipal council was in conference with the Nationalist municipal council.

He told the Generalissimo that France and Spain "are animated by the single desire of living together in peace and harmony."

Francisco received the ambassador in the regional military headquarters and told him:

"Friendship among nations is not a thing of caprice, which may be dictated, but a faithful reflection of their past and of reciprocal esteem created in the course of the years."
